Hall Announces Additions to Marketing and Web Development Teams

January 15, 2010

Portland, Maine – Hall Web Services, a Maine web design and internet marketing firm, announces the additions of Jenika Scott to their marketing team and Alayna White to their web development team. These new hires will add support to Hall's expanding workforce, increasing channel marketing services, and demand for Hall's Tools software.

Jenika brings experience in project management, customer service, and website marketing and will manage Hall's Channel Marketing services to Fortune 500 companies. Alayna's skills in CMS development and support, project management, and integration of social media into web marketing will add to Hall's Web Development team and help enhance Hall's CMS and Tools Software.

"We're thrilled to have Jenika and Alayna on board to help us expand our channel marketing services and develop new web software," said Tom Hall, President of Hall Web Services. "Our goal is to create more jobs in Portland – well paying, benefited jobs that will stay in Maine for the foreseeable future. Jenika and Alayna are both from Maine and they both graduated from the University of Maine. It's great to offer jobs that keep Maine's talent in-state."
